KFCB’S CAMPAIGN AGAINST PSVS EXHIBITING UNRATED CONTENT

Film regulator CEO, Dr Ezekiel Mutua leads law enforcers and staff in crackdown on PSVs displaying obscene content.

NCIC’s stern warning to politicians inciting public to violence

The National Cohesion and Integration Commission (NCIC) has warned politicians against inciting people into violence amid heightened political intolerance that is being witnessed in many parts of the country.

NCIC Commissioner, Wambui Nyutu said, the Commission will not condone any acts of political hokey pokey and violence.

She said suspects will be prosecuted as well as barred from vying for any political seat in future.

“If you incite people into violence, engage in hate speech or use of inflammatory language, the commission will take legal action against you and also make sure you do not vie for any political seat,” the commissioner said.

Refrain

Speaking in Nyeri during a meeting with Central Regional and County security teams, Ms Nyutu said politicians must refrain from engaging in acts that may lead to polarisation of the country along ethnic and political lines for the sake of peace and development.

She said among the strategies the commission will use to monitor unethical conduct by politicians in public meetings will include use of recorders and body cameras to record proceedings.

The recordings, according to the commissioner, will go a long way in forming part of their evidence in court against the culprits.

Central Regional Commissioner, Wilfred Nyagwama, said the security organs will work with all groupings including the church, civil society and council of elders to ensure peace and order is maintained.

He warned that nobody will break the law and expect to walk scot-free.

Public Notice

Validation of VAT Credits

Kenya Revenue Authority reminds all registered taxpayers that it is a requirement under the law to make full and accurate disclosures of all taxable transactions. However, KRA has noted with concern, an emerging trend where VAT registered taxpayers are reducing their tax liability through false claims of VAT input in contravention of the VAT Act, 2013 and Tax procedures Act, thereby denying the government significant revenue.

Registered VAT taxpayers are notified that failure to submit a correct declaration or falsifying information is a criminal offence. These include:

- Utilization of import entry or purchase invoices more than once,
- Utilization of fictitious invoices,
- Failure to observe the tax-point (Post-dating of sales invoices),
- Under declaration of outputs and/or overstatement of inputs,
- Falsified credit notes,
- Claiming of withholding VAT credits without declaration of corresponding sales.

In view of this, all VAT credit claims are being subjected to a validation process and any inconsistencies are being disallowed. Where fraud has been detected, offenders shall be recommended for prosecution in accordance with the Tax Law.

Further, taxpayers are advised to ONLY claim valid inputs in the monthly VAT returns. Kenya Revenue Authority reminds all registered VAT taxpayers that it is a requirement under the tax laws for them to make a full and accurate disclosure of all their tax transactions when submitting returns or when called upon to do so.

Donkey owners petition President to close abattoirs over fears of extinction

BY MUOKI CHARLES (KNA)

Donkey owners across the country have petitioned President Uhuru Kenyatta to order all donkey abattoirs in the country closed to save the beast of burden from extinction.

The owners are blaming donkey skin and meat export to the Chinese market for the massive donkey theft and the drastic reduction of its population.

Speaking during a donkey stakeholder meeting yesterday, the farmers narrated how they have been losing their animals to thieves who sell them to licensed slaughter houses.

Ngachiroo Namuya, a donkey farmer from Turkana said he lost his donkeys in a day, rendering her hopeless. She later learnt that the animals had been taken to a local donkey slaughter house.

Donkeys are major sources of livelihoods in the semi-arid Turkana County with statistics showing that the County leads in donkey population.

“They literally stole my life rendering me poor. I cannot now provide for my family. Despite reporting to authorities, no action is taken to stop the theft,” said the elderly woman.

Fred Samba, another farmer from Homabay County lost his five donkeys recently, and so are hundreds of donkey farmers across the country.

They said donkey theft can no more be tolerated due to the slaughter houses. Before the licensing of donkey slaughter houses in 2016, the country’s donkey population was 1.8 million against 1.2 million currently according to a survey done by animal research institute KALRO.

If the trend in donkey reduction is not arrested, the animal will be wiped out by 2022.

The country has four slaughter houses in Baringo, Naivasha, Turkana and in Kithyoko in Machakos counties all with a processing capacity of 1,000 donkeys per day. The farmers claimed that despite a push to petition county governments that have donkey abattoirs to close them, little action has been taken.

The farmers have since tried donkey breeding to increase its population but the programme has failed as donkeys take years to reproduce.

The Kahuruko Youth Donkey Group in Mwea, Kirinyaga County has a programme to keep female donkeys for breeding but the results are low, according to the chairman Dennis Mchuka. The programme manager Brooke East Africa, an NGO that protects donkey rights, Elijah Mithiti, said they have petitioned the state department for Livestock to ban the slaughter of donkeys but little was being done.

Sh20M disbursed for facelift of County Commissioner’s office block

By PATRICK NYAKUNDI
(KNA)

The National Government through the Ministry In-terior and Coordination, has disbursed Sh20 million to renovate the Makueni County Commissioner’s building whose condition has deteriorating for years.

Making the announcement during a County Development Implementation Coordination Committee (CDICC) meeting in Wote town, the County Commissioner (CC) Mr. Mohammed Maalim said the money will be used to reconstruct the office. In the event that the position cannot be filled from within the county, the position will be advertised further afield (county-wide in Nairobi).

The CC said the money will be allocated for construction works to be done by a contractor hired through a competitive process.

The building that houses the national and county government officers, has developed huge cracks which have become a concern for the workers who fear working in the offices.

“We want to ensure the building is safe for civil servants to work from. They need a conducive environment so that they can deliver services to wananchi,” said Maalim.

He disclosed that they have already advertised for the contract and hope that the contractor who will win will start the works immediately since the funds are available.

In October last year, a move- ment in the building caused stampede as officers and members of the public fled the area after cracking noises were heard at the edges of Wing B on the fourth floor.

Through the intervention of the Engineers from the State Department of Public works visited the county and assessed the building and said it was safe for civil servants to work from.

The building which was constructed in 1988 houses the entire national government and majority of the county government officers including the county executive committee members, chief officers and directors of various departments.

The office block contains close to 600 units and houses more than 1,500 civil servants. Hundreds of members of the public visit the building daily to seek government services.

Speaking in the same meeting, a representative of the County Director of Education Ms. Gladys Malonza said the World Bank will fund the construction of classrooms and laboratories in 539 primary schools in the area.

Ms Malonza said that the schools will be funded through the Secondary Education Quality Improvement Project (SEQIP) and live sub-counties will benefit from the programme.

Cry for help as hospital bill for needy women balloons, discontinues treatment

BY MWANGI GAITHA/ MUNYAKA KAMIRI

An ailing 52 year old woman suffering from a kidney disease, pelvis cancer, high blood pressure and hernia among other diseases is appealing to Kenyans of goodwill to contribute money to enable her continue with treatment.

Ms Ann MuthoniKanyoko, in critical condition with both legs swolen, both kidneys failing and in excruciating pain remains holed up in her home in Ngima -ini village, Mihuti location, Mukurukeni sub county, Nyiri, for lack of money to meet medical expenses at the Nairobi based hospital.

Muthoni who gave the press medical records from various hospitals to authenticate her sad story, lamented that a tube that doctors had fixed in her left kidney to empty waste from her body was supposed to have been removed and another one fixed in the right kidney three weeks ago, but that did not happen as an additional Sh400,000 is needed for the operation.

When KNA visited her home on Monday, the mother of three jobless children aged 33, 30 and 26 was in pain and could not walk unassisted. She appealed to well-wishers to come to her aid, saying her family had exhausted all the resources that they had to cater for her medication.

“Since my health started failing in 2014, I have been operated for various hospitals which strained us financially. We have sold everyting including cows with the last asset that we sold being a motobike that my son used to eke a living,” she stressed tears welling in her eyes.

Muthoni who was in the company of her children and husband George KanyokoNguru who quit his job at the British American Tobacco (BAT) in 2015 to look after her, said, medics have advised that she starts going for chemotheraphy treatment to stop cancer from spreading to other body parts.

“Put I am yet to do so because we have no money. Every day I take drugs worth about Sh700 to treat blood clot, hypertension and also purchase strong pain killers. Sometimes I cannot even afford these drugs, leave alone the exorbitant chemo sessions,” she said desperately.

Like any other woman out there, Muthoni was working hard for her family until life turned upside down when she fell sick. As expected, she sought for medical services at Mukurweini Sub-County Hospital where she was diagnosed with blood clots in her legs.

It was in 2015 when she underwent her very first surgery, not knowing that it marked the beginning of a draining journey, health wise and financially.

She stayed at the hospital for a month and two weeks and was discharged after medics were convinced her situation was contained.
Village girl turned fashion guru who gives women style, class

BY CHRISTINE MWITA/ GEORGE AGIMBA

At the age 24, Audrey Osiri is the embodiment of the true spirit of hustling among youths in Kenya. Her entrepreneurial journey started way back in her second year at Kenyatta University, 2016 where she ventured into selling second hand clothes.

What drove Audrey to the business was her love for fashion and also the drive to fend for her kid and herself.

Armed with a Sh5000 loan from her mother’s “Merry Go Round” savings, she plunged headlong into the uncharted waters of business.

“I could get second hand blazers at Sh100 and second hand shoes at Sh500. I would sell them at a price of Sh200 to my fellow students.”

Selling second hand clothes in college was very hard since she could move from one host to another in search of clients and ends up with no one to sell to at the end of the day.

Her spirit of determination could not allow her to give up despite the fact that some students could turn her away without even listening or looking at what she was selling.

“Balancing school and business is not easy because during exams, I had to suspend my business a bit in order to focus on my studies,” she added.

But after graduating in December, 2019, Audrey had to move from Nairobi to look for a convenient place where she could continue with her business.

She opted to settle in Migori town because it’s where her family abodes.

Today, Audrey is different person from the University-cum- business girl who used to commute between class and Githurai market in her life juggling game.

She has since expanded from selling second hand clothes to selling new women's hand bags, clothes and shoes with a host of customers on tow thronging her business shop in the middle of Migori town.

From her flashy boutique, one would safely purchase a pair of shoes at a cost ranging between Sh500 and Sh1000, handbags from Sh1000 to Sh2500 while the clothes sell between Sh1000 and Sh2000 depending with the material.

Grabbing customers' interest towards your business is a form of growth and with that, Audrey allows her customer to book her products with a down payment that is manageable and attractive to all.

"Am always motivated by good customer service and I prefer serving my customer the same way I would prefer served by others," she told KNA recently during a brief interview at her shop.

However, business is always not rosy and is full of challenges.

Delayed payment of products is some of the challenges that she faces in her business but despite that she is able to get through it.

From sourcing her goods in Nairobi and the far flung towns of Mombasa and Kampala in Uganda, one requires a strong heart to remain afloat in business.

She says moving the cargo from the market to her shop has been a big problem because she spends a lot of fare and freight charges, while the police and Kenya Revenue Authority officers demand their fees.

The mother of one and a wife to a supportive husband who says she also looks forward to going back to school to further her education to PhD level, majoring in Education.

Kenya lauded by UN as efforts to control HIV pandemic bear fruit

BY WANGARI NDIRANGU [KNA]

Kenya has been hailed for achieving over 90 per cent target of managing the HIV/AIDS pandemic through uptake of Anti Retroviral Drugs and reducing the number of new infections.

According to the Kenya Population Based HIV Impact Assessment (KENPHIA), people living with HIV in Kenya are now enjoying longer lives, thanks to enhanced uptake of ARVs and observing regular treatments.

According to the KENPHIA 2018 preliminary report launched last week, Kenya is very close to achieving the 90-90-90 targets of treatment for all. The Joint United Nations Programme on HIV/AIDS (UNAIDS) in 2013 set an ambitious target on HIV treatment requiring that by 2020, 90 per cent of people living with HIV will know their status, 90 percent of all people diagnosed with HIV will receive sustained Anti Retroviral therapy and 90 percent of all people receiving Antiretroviral therapy will have viral suppression.

Speaking during the launch of the preliminary results at Afya House, Health Ministry Chief Administrative Secretary (CAS) Dr. Rashid Aman said that the decrease of new HIV infections clearly shows that the country is on its way to controlling the pandemic.

He-highlighted that the release of KENPHIA data marks an important milestone for Kenya in bench-marking the impact of collective investments over the years in the HIV response.

“Kenya has been committed to the (UNAIDS) 90-90-90 targets for ending the AIDS epidemic and we celebrate that over 96 percent of people who know their HIV-positive status are on life saving treatment and more than 90 percent of those on treatment have controlled the HIV virus and therefore posing very low risk of HIV transmission,” United States Ambassador to Kenya Kyle McCarter said, that in the world of health, relying on scientific experts and data can help make the best possible decisions about policies and programs to improve the lives of HIV carriers.

“This 2018 KENPHIA report provides us with the tool needed for data-driven decision making and the results will positively impact those with HIV,” he said.

Residents warned to brace for rationing due to low water levels

The Thika Water and Sewage Company (THWASCO) has appealed to the public to book her products with a down payment that is manageable and attractive to all.

“The Thika Water and Sewage Company (THWASCO) has been granted Sh2000 million loan from the Kenya Revenue Authority for continued water rationing following inadequate production at the treatment works by the local water producer. The rationing, according to the company, comes despite the Chania and Thika rivers which they depend on for production, experiencing increased water levels following heavy rainfall that pounded the area in December and January.

THWASCO’s Managing Director Eng Moses Keny says the company’s resolve to establish more water reservoirs in Thika to increase production to cater for the rising population had been hindered by shortage of land.

According to the EAC should have started early in collaborating when the pest invaded Kenya to curb the spread.
